How Will America Get Along with 1.3 Billion People?

Shortly after being enshrined in Cooperstown, Cal Ripken, Jr. was named American Public Diplomacy Envoy by the U.S. State Department. True to form, America's Iron Man embraced the challenge of his new career as diplomat. His first mission: travel to China to share the game of baseball – The Ripken Way.

HD cameras personalize the Iron Man and the people of China while providing a rare and insightful glimpse into the unprecedented economic and political growth of a nation that U.S. Undersecretary Karen Hughes contends will be vital to "the future of stability around the world." From Beijing to Shanghai, Ripken's journey to share an American sport – and the American way – with a nation of 1.3 billion people is epic in its own right.

HD 1 x 60 Available for national and international acquisition.
